Licensee Factory List (27 May, 2013)

Being committed to transparency and public disclosure, the adidas Group publishes its licensee factory list with the names and locations of the factories per country. The data presented in our disclosure comes from an industry leading website, the Fair Factories Clearinghouse (FFC). The list includes supplier factories that are used by adidas Group licensees. It always describes the current status of our active business relationships at the date of the publication of the list. Like any large database fed by several business entities, errors can creep in, through incorrect data entries, improper designations (active, deactivated, terminated, etc.) or tardy updates. To eliminate these errors, we strive to keep the disclosure of our licensee factory list as current as possible by updating the list twice a year. The adidas Group runs a data cleansing exercise, to cross check the entries and their accuracy.

If a reader has a query on a specific licensee factory and wants to know whether it is currently making goods for the adidas Group, please feel free to write to us and we will confirm its status. We can be reached at sustainability@adidas-group.com
